Miss Phyllis Taylor has returned to her home on Monument Avenue, after spending the past month in New York City, where she was the guest of Miss Anne Gilbert, a debutante of last season, and Miss Jane Christian. Miss Taylor also spent a short time visiting friends in Bridgeport, Conn. A number of interesting affairs were given for her during her visits to New York and Bridgeport.

Visiting Here.
Miss Maudie Harrison, daughter of General George Paul Harrison, of Alabama, is in Richmond as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lightfoot, at 925 West Grace Street. Several seasons ago Miss Harrison spent a winter in Richmond and she has a great many friends here. She has a lovely soprano voice and sang last evening at St. James' Episcopal Church. A number of charming affairs have been planned in honor of Miss Harrison during her stay in this city.

Green-Alexander.
The marriage of Miss Virginia May Alexander, daughter of the late Col. Alexander and Mrs. Jennie Alexander, of Highland Springs, to Perry Edward Green, of Brunswick County, was celebrated on Wednesday at high noon in the Black Creek Church in Hanover County. The church was decorated in evergreens, shaded candles and flowers, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. P. Suddith. Mrs. W. E. Harrison played the wedding music.

The bride entered with her brother, Leroy F. Alexander, who gave her in marriage, and her wedding dress was of white tulle and satin, made with a long train. Her veil was worn in a Grecian style and fastened with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and bride roses. The bridesmaids, Misses Sarah Dean, of Highland Springs; Judy Tomlin Alexander, a sister of the bride; Elizabeth Jolly, of Ivy, and Irene Dickinson, of Lexington, wore quaint dresses of pink tulle, and carried nosegays of pink sweetpeas. The groomsmen included Messrs. Bryant and Palmer Burns and Robert Jones, of Richmond; J. B. Alexander, of Highland Springs.

A number of interesting functions were given for the bride prior to her wedding on Wednesday. Monday evening Miss Deane entertained the bridal party at a reception-dance, and Tuesday night an elaborate supper was given at the bride's home. Decorations were in pink and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Green left later for their wedding honeymoon, and upon their return will make their home in Brunswick.

Will Wed Miss Britton.
The Hon. Robert Bessford, of the bench, who was in Richmond all winter as representative of the House in the purchase of horses, is to be married to Miss Catherine Britton, a well-known Washington belle.

Captain Bessford is a younger brother of Lord Bessford, who married Miss Vivian Gould. Miss Britton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nona McAdoo, daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury, to serve as a Red Cross nurse. The romance began on the ship, when Miss Britton and Miss McAdoo were on their way to Europe. It had been generally accepted as a fact that Miss Britton would be married to Richmond, but she never announced.

Rooming Hostesses.

Horn to-night finished a sentence of thirty days in jail here on account of property damages caused in Vanceboro by the explosion.

THAW GOES TO TRIAL TO-DAY FOR CONSPIRACY

Prisoner Is Confident That This Is Beginning of End of His Troubles.

JUSTICE PAGE TO PRESIDE
Special Panel of 200 Talesmen Summoned for Jury Duty—Interesting Feature Will Be Inside Story of Escape-Plot From Matteawan.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NEW YORK, March 7.—In the old chamber of the criminal branch of the Supreme Court, where he made his two successive fights for life, Harry K. Thaw will go on trial again to-morrow, this time before Justice Page, on a charge of conspiracy, growing out of his escape from Matteawan on August 17, 1913.

Thaw and his friends believe that this is the beginning of the end of his troubles. Out of the proceeding, which will be begun to-morrow they feel that he will eventually, even though it be through a term of imprisonment on Blackwell's Island, be set at liberty, with the question of his sanity finally settled.

In the Tombs to-day, Thaw was most cheerful, despite a cold and stiff neck. He jocularly expressed the hope that no one would regard him as haughty if he walked into court with his head high in the air. His eyes bright and his complexion clear, the famous prisoner smoked his pipe thoughtfully, and declared himself ready for the ordeal. "I know nothing of the plans in my behalf," said Thaw. "I am entirely in the hands of my attorneys."

STANCHFIELD REFUSES TO MAKE STATEMENT

John B. Stanchfield, who will conduct the defense of Thaw, would merely say he had everything in readiness. In reply to the various rumors that he had a surprise to spring on the State, or that he would offer no defense for Thaw, he refused to make any comment. One of the persistent rumors is that Mr. Stanchfield at the beginning of the proceedings to-morrow will plunge the whole case into a lullaby proceeding by pointing out the unreasonableness of trying an insane man for conspiracy, and asking that a commission be appointed to pass on the sanity of the defendant before he was compelled to go to trial. This would bring the whole question of Thaw's sanity, which must be determined before he is returned to Matteawan, before the court at once.

Called to the bar with Thaw to-morrow will be Roger Thompson, Richard Butler, Eugene Duffy, Michael O'Keefe and Thomas Flood, charged with having conspired with him and aided in his escape. The State will try all of the defendants at once, unless they insist upon separate trials, which is not expected.

A special panel of 200 talesmen has been summoned for jury duty at the trial, which is expected to last about two weeks. Aside from the possibility of Thaw himself taking the witness stand, one of the most interesting features will be the inside story of the plot to get Thaw out of Matteawan.

GEROME WILL NOT BE IDENTIFIED WITH TRIAL

John B. Stanchfield will have general charge of the defense, but will be assisted by half a dozen other attorneys. The State will be represented by Deputy Attorney-General Frank K. Cook and Franklin Kennedy, with Assistant District Attorney O'Malley, representing the district attorney's office. For the first time in the history of the Thaw case, former District Attorney William Travers Jerome will not be identified with the proceedings.

"There is nothing more that I can say, except that we are ready," said Cook. "I am not at all disturbed. I am prepared for anything they may attempt. The State will call about twenty-five witnesses, and I should say it will take about a week for us to present our case. Through these witnesses, we shall trace Thaw's flight through Connecticut, Massachusetts, clear up to Canada, showing just how it was arranged, what preparations were made in advance, and how the entire plot was carried out."

It was understood today that Mrs. William Thaw, mother of the defendant, will sit with him through the trial.

PRISONER OR FUGITIVE

SINCE JUNE, 1906 Thaw has been prisoner or fugitive since the night of June 25, 1906, when he shot and killed Stanford White on the Madison Square Garden roof. After two trials, the first of which resulted in a disagreement, he was acquitted on the ground of insanity, and was sent to Matteawan.

Then began Thaw's fight for liberty. Writs of habeas corpus were obtained at various times, requiring his appearance in court to establish his sanity. These proceedings invariably resulted unfavorably to him.

On Sunday, August 17, 1913, Thaw escaped in an automobile, eluded capture for two days, and finally was arrested at Contoosick, Canada. He subsequently was released by the Canadian authorities and sent to Vermont. He fled to Colorado, N. H., where he obtained counsel and prepared to fight against returning to Matteawan.

A writ of habeas corpus was obtained from a Federal Judge at Concord, and Thaw automatically became a government charge. Argument on the writ was delayed until Governor Parker, of New Hampshire, could decide to grant or deny the fugitive's extradition.

The Governor finally decided that Thaw should be extradited, and that the case went back to the United States Supreme Court on the broad issue that Thaw's rights under the Constitution were being violated; that New York, holding him legally insane, sought his extradition on a charge of conspiracy. Thaw was kept in custody, but was taken in charge by New York State officers about seven weeks ago, when the Supreme Court ruled that he could be brought back here on an indictment for conspiracy.
